| Recently I have read an article called "Mind over Mass Media" and I would like to comment on it. The article is dedicated to the effects of electronic media on humans' minds. It is aimed at finding out whether the moral panic due to the rise of the usage of electronic media is justified or not. The article contains different points of view on this topic. Some people are convinced that using the Internet is likely to lower people's intelligence because it does not let them comprehend the information properly, only encouraging to touch "the surface of knowledge" instead. Moreover, they believe electronic devices can often be distracting. However, the author does not agree with this opinion. While they admit that gadgets can be addictive, they believe it is a matter of self-control. Also, the ability to reflect process the information is gained throughout hard work, so it cannot be taken away by access to the Internet so easily. Personally, I agree with the author's opinion. Indeed, gadgets might be harmful but only if you use them the wrong way. A person with self-control, however, can benefit from them. In conclusion, this article is a great source of information. | Количество слов: 198 | |
