The article "World English" explains how the English language became the world language and the role of North America in the process. The author points out that the largest group of native English speakers in the world is Americans. The main reasons of English developing in the New World are, according to the text, immigration, colonization and religious oppression. For example, author mentions a massive wave of Irish immigration to the America in 1720s, when around fifty thousands of Irish moved towards inland territories of a newly discovered continent. But these reasons are not the only ones that gave English the privilege to have more than 250 millions native speakers. There were also economical and historical factors. Firstly, the British Empire was the industrial centre of Europe after the Industrial revolution in the 18th century. Secondly, British and American trade fleets were the biggest in the world. Finally, the US and British were the winners of both World Wars in 1918 and in 1945, which allowed to increase the influence of the language even more. To conclude, the English language becoming the world language is one and the only result of the processes which took place in the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries.
