031.	The first significant step in the progress of English towards its status took place during colonisation which increased the figure of mother-tongue English speakers fiftyfold and added a fresh dimension to the history of the language.	+
032.	Further settlements quickly followed Jamestown and in November 1620 the first group of puritans arrived on the Mayflower in company of 67 other settlers, not reaching the land of Virginia, though.	+
033.	New shiploads of immigrants brought an increasing variety of linguistic backgrounds to areas like Pennsylvania which came to be settled by Quakers whose regional dialects began to blur when they found themselves living alongside each other.	+
034.	A wave of immigration from Northern Ireland brought around 650000 Irish and Scotch-Irish settlers, who moved inland in search of land and whose pioneering spirit „opened up” the south and west.	+
035.	The American population, numbered around 4 million by the time of the first census and over 50 million a century later, spread throughout the continent	+

Pieces of English Jigsaw. "World English" article tells us about the path of the language from just another tongue in Europe to the leading position in the society. It points out how it was shaped by various immigrants from far and wide. However, was that a linguistic breakthrough or the negative effect of globalisation? First and foremost, I would like to elaborate on the content of the article. To cut a long story short, it describes how the "Pilgrim Fathers" settled started settling colonising the New World and how the interaction between the Quakers blurred the original dialects and differences in the language. Later on, the passage focuses on how diverse the population of North America became: from Irish to Afri anyone from Irish to African could be found there. In the end of the day, all the borders (physical and ethnographical) were long gone and what is associated with the present-day American speech turned into reality. The creation of the intercultural accent of English might be considered one of the most significant steps towards status the "world language" status. On the other hand, this "breakthrough" erased the cultural differ variety as well. The "pioneering spirit" of the Scotch-Irish, the persecuted by the church history of the persecuted by the church and other facts have drowned in the river of memories or or have survived only in the scripts of that time.	Количество слов: 274

Overall, I consider this article as quite an interesting source of information for and food for thought. It goes without saying that the debates ^{about} on the effect effects of ^{the} colonising period on the language will go on for a long time. but time Alas, it will tell whether the creation mash-up of accents was for "mead" of "deed".
