In the article "The supply and preparation of food" the author explores the differences between the rural, the middle class and the upper class diets.	Количество слов: 189
As it is stated in the text, the village communities had to satisfy their needs on their own! There was no great variety in their diet as it consisted mostly of bread-grains, such as wheat, rye and barley, and small poached animals. Similarly, the middle class had a rather bland diet. However, unlike villagers, they could allow some spices and sweetenings like honey sold by the town merchants. Moreover, they were not fully dependent on themselves as they could buy products from local markets.	Критерии оценивания
Of course, the rich had the most varied diet. It contained a larger amount of meat and more exotic spices imported from far lands.	Коммуникативная задача (0-10)	6
In conclusion, I believe that these differences were dictated by the wealth and the status. The richer the person, the more nutritious diet they have. And the other way around, the poorer the person, the more they have to rely on themselves and the less variety they have in their diet.	Оформление
