Art and its history I have come across an article called "What is art history and where is it going?" that tries to answer its question by looking into various different views from different eras. First, the article discusses art and its ever-changing definition and values. Then art history is brought up, specifically how its ideas also change over time. So, what opinions are mentioned in the article? One values beauty in art, the other looks for creativity and meaning, although both terms are subjective. The author concludes that art should be seen as artifacts that make us think and feel, with which I agree. Then it is said that, as art history's narratives constantly change, historians have to write it so it fits in with modern values. I consider this to be a wrong approach because art should make us think, thus, its history should make us think as well by showing how much humanity and our morals have changed. In conclusion, this article is worth reading as it brings up complex questions about art and history.	Количество слов: 169
